Service At Memorial Methodist

The Rev. Joseph L. Nelson, Jr., Assistant Professor of Religion and Philosophy in Lynchburg College, will be the guest preacher for the eleven o'clock Worship Service in Memorial Methodist Church Sunday, April 13, in the absence of the minister, the Rev. Richard A. Bergdoll, who will be preaching in the Campostella Methodist Church, Norfolk. Rev. Bergdoll is a former pastor of the Norfolk church.

Professor Nelson is a graduate of Hampden-Sydney College, and received the Bachelor of Divinity degree from Union Theological Seminary, Richmond. He has been associated with Lynchburg College since 1952.

The Chapel Choir, under the direction of Miss Harriett Hollis, with Organist, Mrs. Murrell Ferguson and Miss Peggy Godsey, will present special music for the service.

The minister will return in the afternoon at four to present the final study in the series on the Book of St. Mark, "Christ Appears," for the evening service, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, when the Sanctuary Choir will be in charge of the singing of the Old Familiar Hymns of the Church, and the Spiritual Life Committee of the Women's Society of Christian Service will assist in the service.

Outstanding Career of Jerry Burke, Jr.

Friends in Appomattox are delighted to claim as a distinguished native son a young man who has carved out a success-ful career in one of the new postwar vocations. That would be Mr. Jerry A. Burke, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Burke, of Appomattox.

Immediately after the close of World War II, a remarkable organization was started in Richmond. Under the unique but appropriate name of Experiment, Inc., the organization took as its objective, through research and experiment to devise new and effective methods of converting and utilizing energy, particularly in the field of aeronautics and missiles.

In its years since, this group has come up with amazing results. It lists among its accomplishments the first liquid propellant gun, the first "double reaction" propulsion system for guided missiles, designed and flight tested the first successful supersonic solid fuel ramjet, and designed and operated the first molybelbmum turbine.

In its first decade, Experiment, Inc., expanded from 3000 square feet of floor space to 48,000, and increased its personnel from eleven people to forty, over one-fifth of whom are graduate engineers and scientists. And its gross volume of business increased from $20,000 in 1945 to over $1,300,000 ten years later.

Mr. Burke has had a great share in this enterprise. He has held the position, in turn, of Senior Engineer, Plant Manager, Head of the Ballistic Laboratory, Vice President, Ordnance Division, and is now its Executive Vice-President.

Mr. Burke was born and raised in Appomattox. After attending local schools, he went to Washington and Lee and was graduated there in 1938, having majored in mechanical and aeronautical engineering.

He was associated with the Royal Liverpool Group of Fire Insurance Companies for several years as a Fire Prevention Engineer. And in 1942 he joined the U. S. Navy, and was assigned to the Aeronautical Engine Laboratory as a Special Test Engineer. While in this assignment, he was one of a group of engineers developing a method of injecting water along with gasoline into aircraft engines to boost power some 25%. By the end of World War II, all U. S. fighter planes had this device.

During 1945, Mr. Burke and Dr. Ernest Flock designed, built and tested the first afterburner, a device for boosting the thrust of turbojet engines by 30%.

Mr. Burke is a member of the American Ordnance Association, the American Rocket Society, is Vice-Chairman of the Richmond Chapter of the American Society for Metals and the Southampton Civic Association.

He is a member of the Bon Air Presbyterian Church and a teacher in the Bon Air Presbyterian Sunday School.

The career of Mr. Burke has a bright future, as well as a great past and present, and his friends in Appomattox will continue to keep a watchful eye on his accomplishments, holding as they do inspiration for others.

QUESTIONS OF THE WEEK

(Editor's note: Here are the questions asked most frequently by Virginia farmers during the past week, as reported by county agricultural agents. Staff members of the V-I Agricultural Extension Service and/or Experiment Station supply the answers.

Q. Is it too late to use chlorpicrin IPC for chickweed control?

A. Yes.

Q. How can I best take soil samples when the land is wet? Will they be accurate samples?

A. The pH will be affected only slightly. To take the sample, collect soil from various parts of the field, dry it, and mix it thoroughly.

Q. Is it too late to sow spring oats?

A. Spring oats will generally do best when seeded before now. However, in many parts of the state seeding has been delayed by wet weather.

Q. Should I topdress my small grain to take care of leaching caused by all the rain we have had?

A. If plant foods have been leached, topdressing will help to some extent — but not as much as if it had been done before mid-March.

Q. Can I still apply for forest tree seedlings?

A. Yes, there are still seedlings of most species available, and they will be available until growth starts in the nurseries. Better apply immediately, though.

Q. At what price should I sell my feeder steers rather than grade them myself?

A. This will vary considerably from farm to farm. If you are offered 28 to 30c, start figuring on what you could do with your grass if you sold your steers, and on how much the grass will be worth to you if sold through the steers. If you have plentiful pasture and nothing else to do with it, better keep your cattle.
